Retrial set

Tentative date is Nov. 2
for Eagle Park case

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

MADISON COUNTY

Tempers flared Monday as attorneys debated applying the death penalty in the upcoming retrial of a man convicted in one of Madison County's worst mass murders. When the smoke cleared, Circuit Judge Lawrence Keshner said he needed to take the issue under advisement. In the meantime, he has tentatively set Nov. 2 for the retrial of Remon C. Williams. Williams, 26, of East St. Louis, was convicted along with Michael Coleman, 26, of Venice, and Sherrell Towns, 25, of East St. Louis, on five counts of first-degree murder for the execution-style slayings of five people in neighboring trailers in Eagle Park on Nov. 17, 1993. Eagle Park is located just outside of Madison.

Williams and Towns received the death penalty, and Coleman was sentenced to natural life imprisonment. The Illinois Supreme Court reversed the conviction of Williams in March, saying that his constitutional right to a fair trial was violated when the lower court judge, Keshner, allowed testimony of witnesses that improperly connected Williams to admissions made by Coleman. In effect, the higher court said, Williams had the right, but never got the chance, to cross-examine Coleman regarding the incriminating (See CASE, Page 6A)

Man arrested for scuffle with police

Officer says suspect reached for gun

A Granite City man was jailed on a $75,000 bond for allegedly assaulting and attempting to disarm a police officer.

Ricky E. Teller, 44, was charged Tuesday by the Madison County State's Attorney with aggravated battery of a police officer and attempting to disarm a police officer.

Police list Teller as homeless. According to reports, police responded to a domestic disturbance call after 4 p.m. Monday on Parktown West. Officer Jonathan Blaylock recognized Teller from previous run-ins with police and saw Teller run into a trailer, whose owner reported Teller ran out the back. The resident told police that Teller had been drinking all day long and had refused repeated requests to leave. The resident also said Teller claimed U.S. Marshals were after him and it would be the last time they would see each other. Blaylock brought Teller back to the trailer, where the suspect began cursing and saying he wouldn't go back in. Teller then "assumed an

Council OKs bid for bridge traffic study

Action paves way for possible loan

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Venice City Council gave tentative approval to the low bid for a traffic study on the McKinley Bridge.

Mayor Tyrone Echols said the study is the first step in securing loans to repay the bridge's bond debt and to make major improvements.

TAMS Consultants, a Chicago-based company with offices in O'Fallon, was the low bidder at $60,200. Three other companies submitted bids, the highest at $88,000.

The council voted to accept the low bid pending the examination of the bid proposal by bridge officials.

The city may take out up to $15 million in loans to pay off the bond debt and to make bridge repairs. Combined with approximately $11 million in federal and state money already earmarked for the bridge over the next few years, they could complete about $21 million in repairs. This would be in addition to about $7.5 million in recently completed repairs to the Illinois approaches to the bridge.

Echols said earlier this year that without major repairs, specifically on the western end of the bridge, the bridge would have to close (See STUDY, Page 6A)

Local man named Airman of the Year

A local soldier has garnered high honors from the Air Force. Senior Airman Michael Q. Withers, 20, of Granite City was named Outstanding Active Duty Intelligence Airman of the Year recently at Scott Air Force Base.

demanding program, said his unit commander, Lt. Col. John J. Sowdon. In the nomination, Sowdon said Withers was "a leader of the future, the smartest, hardest working intelligence airman in (Air Mobility Command) and has phenomenal potential." Sowdon wrote that Withers "achieves tremendous results when confronted with major responsibilities and limited resources" and is "exceptionally reliable and trustworthy when given an assignment."

Withers, an Airman First Class at the time of his nomination, has since been promoted to Senior Airman.

A graduate of Granite City High school, Withers is the son of Dennis and Ruthann Withers of Granite City.

Electrical failure sparks evacuation

By Scott Kelly

Mitchell Elementary students got an unexpected recess Tuesday when an electrical failure caused school officials to evacuate the building on the advice of firefighters.

"Two weeks ago, a main feeder line arced and cut in two. The same thing happened yesterday," said District Superintendent Steve Balen. As a precaution, the school was evacuated while officials waited an hour and 10 minutes for an AmerenUE truck to respond to their call. AmerenUE said the problem was in the main receiver box in the school, Balen said.

A new line was run from the building to electrical poles. "It shouldn't happen again," Balen said. He also said the district was sending a letter to AmerenUE with concerns over the response time.

Some parents are more upset with the district for downplaying the incident and not informing parents of the problem.

"No letter was sent to parents about the last incident," said Nicki Zimmerman, whose daughter attends Mitchell. "There were no phone calls, nothing on TV or the radio. I heard

Voters are stuck with negative ads until election ends

Nobody ever wants to admit it, but negative campaigns work.

"Politics is a very pragmatic science. If something succeeds, candidates will use it. And negative attacks work so well that all candidates in hotly contested races use them in one way or another."

Congressman Jerry Weller (R-11) is no stranger to negativity. Weller is a conservative Republican who represents a marginally Democratic district and manages to keep his job with exceptional cunning and street smarts. He seems like a nice enough sort when you meet him, but he'll tear your political throat out if you run against him.

Two years ago, he portrayed his opponent, Clem Balanoff, as a California hippie. Weller sent out direct mail that featured peace signs and photos of long-haired, stoned-looking people with bell bottoms. He called his opponent "California Clem" and he beat Balanoff, who worked as political consultant in California for a few years, by 7,500 votes.

Weller also told voters Balanoff had voted to make the temporary surcharge to the state income tax permanent when Balanoff had actually voted against that bill and Weller voted for it.

Not long ago, Weller's spokesperson criticized his current opponent for supporting President Clinton, who he referred to as a "sex addict." That sort of campaign language almost opens the door for the other side.

It was only a couple of weeks before the other shoe dropped. Weller's opponent, Gary Mueller, challenged him the other day to sign an "affidavit of integrity." By signing the affidavit, Weller would be swearing he had never cheated, on, nor abused, his ex-wife, never engaged in homosexual act, never taken drugs and had never been convicted of a felony.

Weller, of course, refused to sign, rightly claiming this was the act of a desperate man. Titled, Mueller is desperate. He has run an extremely unethical campaign so far and it can't be able to raise more than a few bucks on his own.

But Mueller wouldn't have considered using such a tactic against a guy who had always taken the high road. Sometimes what goes around comes around — twice as hard.

And that's why things are going to get mighty busy in the 11th state House District in southern Illinois. A couple of weeks ago, state Rep. Dan Reitz's opponent, Bruce Brown

Rich Miller

(R-Chester), accused him of supporting a very controversial landfill. Brown's radio ads and direct mailers even refer to Reitz as "Danfil."

Reitz (D-Steeleville) denies ever supporting the project and has shot back with a commercial defending himself.

For good measure, Reitz also began airing another ad accusing Brown of being the sole contributor to a local sheriff candidate who ended up in jail for arson. The sheriff candidate's two top advisers were also convicted of arson.

Both sides assure me they're prepared to escalate this negativity as far as it takes. It's expected to be the nastiest state legislative race this year. The U.S. Senate race will also be one of the bloodiest ever.

One of Sen. Carol Mosley-Braun's top advisers told me the other day that he planned to "rip Peter Fitzgerald's face off" — presumably the warm and fuzzy, soccer mom-friendly face that the conservative Republican Fitzgerald uses in his campaign ads — when he's not airing his own attack ads against Mosley-Braun.

One of Mosley-Braun's latest TV ads accuses Fitzgerald of wanting to abolish the U.S. Department of Education. Fitzgerald has cried foul, however, saying he is on record supporting a scaled-back department. Of course, Fitzgerald is also on record as saying that since the U.S. Constitution fails to mention the word "education" he doesn't believe the federal government should be involved in education at all. That's called having your cake and eating it, too.

I'll leave you with this: Polling shows older women are the strongest opponents of negative campaigns, but research has proven they respond to negative attacks more than any other demographic. We are stuck with it.

Rich Miller also publishes Capitol Fax, a statewide political newsletter. The preceding column provided by the Illinois Press Association, does not necessarily reflect the opinions of the association or this newspaper.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Effort noted

TO THE EDITOR:
The past and present methods to beautify the city of Madison have not worked. You can drive through the streets in Madison County Board Member Don Garrett's district and see for yourself. This has not happened overnight.

TO THE EDITOR:
Bill Price must really be out of touch. His comments in the Sept. 17 Press-Record about Congressman Jerry Costello not being committed to keeping the Army Depot off the Granite City open are absolutely ridiculous.

I've lived in Granite City all my life, and everyone in this area knows that if it wasn't for Congressman Costello and his hard work, this base would have been closed years ago and would not be here today.

Imagination helps us get over bad times

In a time of low farm prices and we think that there is no light at the end of the tunnel, along comes something to take our mind off our problems... no, not a solution to the Asian economic problems, not a big increase in exports and so, not even a big government bail-out program.

I think the Mark McGwire-Sammy Sosa home run race has helped in strange and somewhat funny way. The race has given us something else to talk about down at the coffee shop, something to watch on TV when we need that extra little something.

Harvest is here, and I thought it would be appropriate to include a little poem dedicated to those who feed our country. It is called

David Schumacher

"Farming: A Way of Life."
The snow has melted
And the skies are clear.
It's time to get out
That good old John Deere.
They work the ground
Until late at night.
They stay with it

Until they do it right.
The seeds are planted
In long narrow rows.
Now it's up to God
To make them grow.
The rain will come
And the sun will shine.
It better warm up.
We are already behind.
The corn is growing...
Oh, so tall
The beans are late
And a little small.
Time flies by
And the harvest is here!
Once again, we crank up
The old John Deere.
The farmers head down the road
And into the field.
They can't hardly wait
To check the yield.
The crops are hauled to the scale

To be weighed.
That's where the farmer
Hopes to get paid.
Harvest is over
And time to rest.
Knowing down deep
That you did your best.
From those of us
Who eat what you grow.
There is just one thing
We want you to know.
For all those hours
You work long and late,
I am sure when the time comes
God will meet you at the gate.
Who knows, you might get in
On a discounted rate.
A little reminder as you get started with the harvest: Make sure your lights and reflectors are all in good condition when driving on the road.

Papa ignores county voters

TO THE EDITOR:
This is an open letter to Rudy Papa. I am sending it through the paper in the hope that he will read it there. I don't think he would read it if I sent it to him directly. He has selective vision, which is what this letter is all about. Mr. Papa, you come across to the public (the residents of Madison County) as very arrogant. Wow, the big man in charge! You do not come across as a leader. I think you wanted to be the "leader" of Madison County. Sorry, you're not succeeding!

A true leader:
• Isn't afraid to hear all sides of an issue, even when he may not like the other viewpoint;
• Isn't afraid to hold an open meeting to listen to all concerned residents, to let them talk, to be there personally to answer their questions;
• Isn't afraid to recognize all of the board members at the board meetings who ask to speak, not just calling on those he knows what they will say;

And a great leader is more concerned for his people than his cronies.
In other words, one does not come to be a great leader by being afraid nor by threatening reprisals.

Now, I know I don't live in your district, but when you became chairman, at that point, I became one of your bosses, just like every other voter in Madison County is, and we don't like what we see.

The day of good ol' boy politics is over! See ya on the campaign trail!

Verticchio lashes out at Shimkus at forum

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

Rick Verticchio came out swinging at his opponent, U.S. Rep. John Shimkus, during Tuesday night's Metro East Public Forum.

The otherwise congenial forum featuring seven candidates for the Illinois Legislature was enlivened by Verticchio's strident criticisms of Shimkus, the Republican incumbent in the 20th Congressional District.

More than 100 people attended the Legislative Forum at Edwardsville High School. It was sponsored by a number of organizations, including the League of Women Voters of Edwardsville and Collinsville and the American Association of Retired Persons.

The candidates for the Legislature appearing at the forum were state Rep. Ron Stephens, R-110th Legislative District, and his Democratic challenger, Robert Daiber, state Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-112th Legislative District, and his Republican challenger, Steve Reeb; state Sen. Frank Watson, R-55th Senatorial District, and his Democratic challenger, Kristi Vetrì; and state Sen. Steve Davis, D-11th Legislative District, who is running unopposed.

While the rest of the candidates refrained from criticizing each other's positions on the issues, Verticchio, the Democratic challenger for Congress from the 20th District, drew catcalls from some in the crowd when he attacked Shimkus' record.

"John Shimkus voted against the Patient Bill of Rights," said Verticchio, who lives in Gillespie. "John Shimkus told the insurance companies, 'Give me $26,000 worth of campaign donations and I will kill a bill that will reform health care for families.'"

"This may be hard to hear for those of you who support him, but John Shimkus took money from tobacco companies and said, 'I'm against limiting smoking.'"

Verticchio said.

In his rebuttal, Shimkus said he was fighting for the working class by voting to cut taxes, and he also addressed the issue of his campaign contributors.

"I got more money this year from organized labor than I have from tobacco, so I like to see it turned over to the working class of America," he said to applause from his supporters.

There was no apparent rancor outside the exchanges between the congressional candidates, and many of the state legislative candidates spoke about the need for them to work together in a bipartisan spirit to represent the interests of downstate Illinois in a Legislature dominated by Chicago and the northern part of the state.

"It's important that this caucus stay together," Stephens said.

He referred to highway projects that might not be in his district but that still have an effect on his commute.

"If they're in this area, they matter to all of us," Stephens said.

In opening statements, each candidate addressed the issues of public education funding, managed health care reform, health insurance and campaign finance reform.

The candidates also answered questions submitted by members of the audience about their priorities for transportation and property tax reform, and whether they believe the state does enough to provide affordable child care for working families.

After the forum, members of the audience came forward to speak with the individual candidates.

The next event in the Metro East Public Forum Series, the Congressional Forum, will be held Monday, Oct. 5, at the Senior Center in Caseyville. It will feature U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-12th District, and his Republican challenger, William Melvin Price.

Candidates back closing nursing home

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

Three Madison County Board candidates and a representative of an incumbent spoke at a public forum Tuesday night with members of the County Homes Action Committee.

Although the issue of closing the Madison County Nursing Home and Sheltered Care Home was the hottest topic, the candidates also discussed how they would change county government if elected Nov. 3.

Byron Sherfy, R-Cottage Hills, is running for County Board in District 14 against

MADISON COUNTY

County Board Chairman Rudy Papa. He shared the opinion of most of the other candidates in attendance.

"With all the nursing homes in the county, there's no need for the county to operate against private homes," Sherfy said. "My mother was at Anna Henry Nursing Home in Edwardsville until she died. I felt she was cared for and the people seemed to care about her a great deal."

2 women provide glimpse into Stassi rape case

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

Two women provided a glimpse Tuesday of the prosecution's case in the upcoming rape trial of former Wood River city councilman Anthony Stassi.

The women, one of whom is expected to be a witness, testified during a pretrial hearing that Stassi came on to them sexually in separate incidents in January 1996 and April 1997.

Neither woman is directly involved in the actual case for which Stassi, 40, faces trial Oct. 19 — the alleged sexual assault of a 17-year-old girl who came to his house in Wood River in June 1997 in hopes of taking a housecleaning job.

Stassi is also charged with raping a 19-year-old woman at gunpoint in May 1996 in Alton. The state has decided to try the cases separately and is going with the 1997 case first because it more clearly fits the pattern Stassi is alleged to have followed.

The women who testified Tuesday during the hearing before Associate Judge James Hackett were cross-examined for their relevance as prosecution witnesses. Asking the questions were Assistant State's Attorney Kyle Napp and defense attorney Ben Allen.

Allen is trying to get as much potential testimony excluded from the trial as possible. He said Tuesday that he also plans to subpoena Alton police records to prove the teen-age victim in the 1997 case filed a false rape report in 1993, the result of trying to hide a romantic encounter.

The first woman to testify Tuesday, a 25-year-old former Bethalto resident, said Stassi had contacted her to clean his house in the 400 block of Ferguson Avenue in early January 1996. She got his business card and called him the next day about setting up an appointment.

"He told me not to be nervous and come

(to his house) with an open mind."

Testimony from hearing and come with an open mind. I thought, why would you ask me to open mind to clean a house?"

She said her boyfriend drove her to Stassi's house the next day, Jan. 8, and waited outside in the car as she went to the back of the house and up a flight of stairs to meet Stassi.

After a few minutes of conversation, Stassi propositioned the woman and offered her $100, asking her if she would like to "fool around," she said.

"He took me by the arm and led me to his bed and asked me if I wanted to fondle him," she said. He also kissed her, she said.

She testified that she told Stassi she had to make arrangements with her boyfriend outside and immediately left the house. She reported the incident the same day to police but told them less than a week later that she did not want to press charges.

"I didn't want to go through the trauma," she said.

The second woman to testify Tuesday said she met Stassi in April 1997 while he was visiting Miss Kitty's, a Metro East strip club where she worked.

During that visit, he struck up a conversation in which he asked her if she would like to clean his house. Later, while still at the club, she said she was sitting on his lap and he fondled her. She asked him to stop and he did, she said.

She said she contacted authorities later after seeing Stassi identified as a rape suspect on television.

Napp told the judge that the state plans to include testimony from two other women who had uninvited sexual encounters with Stassi, if the judge agrees. One of the women lives in Kentucky, and the other lived in Wood River but has since moved and is being sought by the State's Attorney's Office.

Union members to honor Costello for labor support

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

Hundreds of working people will attend a ceremony to honor U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleview, at Caseyville Park on Saturday.

Union members from throughout Southwestern Illinois will honor Costello, who represents the state's 12th Congressional District, because of his legislative record in support of organized labor and for returning federal tax dollars to the area in the form of transportation projects.

"Congressman Costello was responsible for bringing eight major projects totaling more than $1 billion to our area," said Tadas Kicieliński, executive secretary-treasurer of the Southwestern Illinois Building and Construction Trades Council.

"Those projects created thousands of jobs for working men and women. We are very grateful to Jerry for his support."

Among the projects that Costello helped bring to The Telegraph area were the New Clark Bridge and the new visitors center at the Melvin Price Locks and Dam in Alton.

Kicieliński said he had designed the award that will be presented to Costello: A gold-plated hard hat on a mahogany base. A brass plaque on the base will list the projects Costello worked on.

The inscription will read: "Job Award from working men and women from the 12th Congressional District."

"He has always been there for us," Kicieliński said of Costello.

Some of the Democratic candidates for statewide offices in this fall's election also will appear at the gathering, including U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, who is running for governor; Miriam Santos, candidate for attorney general; and Jesse White, candidate for secretary of state.

A number of other candidates for state House and Senate seats, as well as for county and local races, are expected to attend.

The public is invited to meet the candidates. The suggested contribution is $10 per person and $20 per family. Soft drinks, beer, barbecue and side dishes will be served.

More than $4,000 worth of tickets already have been sold, and organizers expect at least 1,000 people to attend, Kicieliński said.

The rally is sponsored by Southwestern Illinois Building & Construction Trades Council AFL-CIO, Southwestern Illinois Central Labor Council, 12th Congressional District COPE, Illinois Federation of Teachers, Caseyville Democratic Club, Machinists Lodge 660, AFSCME Council 31, the Illinois State AFL-CIO and United Steelworkers of America District 7.

Proceeds from the rally will benefit the Southwestern Illinois Building & Construction Trades Council Political Action Committee. For more information, call 344-6050.

Caseyville Park is located behind Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1117 at 415 Long St. in Caseyville.

Police, fire departments accepting food for Salvation Army pantry

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

In an effort to help the Salvation Army maintain its food bank program, the Granite City police and fire departments will be accepting food Saturday.

In a memo to police officers, Maj. Kip Pomeroy said the police station and all three fire stations would be collections points for food.

"I do not normally volunteer the department for outside efforts such as this, but this one means a great deal to me," the memo stated. "After all, it is the children of the needy who are on the receiving end of the food."

Capt. Martin Colip of the Southwestern Madison County Salvation Army said recently that their pantry is nearly empty. The local Salvation Army in Granite City serves the Edwardsville, Collinsville, Tri-City and Highland areas.

Colip said that things are usually tight for this time of year because of increased need, and that they have had to cut back on food baskets.

The Salvation Army's major fund-raising and food collection efforts take place in October and November.

Another problem has been the inability to have special food drives. Many stores only will allow one group at a time on their property to raise funds. Most of those spaces are booked by other organizations.

Anyone wanting to donate can call 451-7957.

On Tuesday, Zimmermann's father-in-law had gone to Mitchell School for grandparents' day, but the event was cancelled.

Children waited outside for three hours while American Union workers corrected the problem. Had Tuesday's weather been inclement or cold, Balem said, the district would have put all the students on buses, taken them to Coolidge Middle School's gym for the rest of the day and notified parents of their location.

"Some parents would have wanted to pick their kids up (Tuesday)," Zimmermann said.

Zimmermann said she understood that a lot of parents would have been upset and would have reacted strongly to the news. However, she said, some system should be in place to let parents know of problems as soon as possible.

Another Mitchell school parent, who wished to remain anonymous, was quite upset over both incidents.

aggressive stance" and took a swing at Blocklock. The officer partially blocked the punch, then grabbed the suspect's arm, but Teller then hit him in the stomach, reports state.

The two grappled. Blocklock was able to switch on his radio to call for help from two other officers. Teller then made a grab for the officer's sidearm. Blocklock was able to force the suspect to the ground and cuff him on one wrist, then sprayed pepper mace in Teller's face. The other officers arrived to finish subduing the suspect.

Blocklock later told Assistant State's Attorney Rich Ryback of the incident and said he believed Teller was trying to gain control of his weapon.

The officer was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for a sprained left knee and abrasions to his fingers.

In addition to the current charges, the resident of the trailer also agreed to sign a criminal trespass complaint against Teller.

Maj. Kip Pomeroy said Teller has a criminal past. Police and prosecutors intend to pursue prosecution to put him away for a long time, Pomeroy said.

Several events featured in Ridefinder's drive for alternative commute

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

If you've been thinking about trying MetroLink — or a bus, car pooling or telecommuting — October may be the time to start.

RideFinders is sponsoring its annual RideShare Week Oct. 12-16. During the week, commuters are encouraged to try car pooling, van pooling, mass transit, biking, walking, flextime or telecommuting.

A different type of commuting will be highlighted each day.

The week will kick off from 6-9 a.m. Oct. 12 at the North Hanley MetroLink Station. RideFinders will provide breakfast for commuters, who can then try MetroLink.

Tuesday and Wednesday will emphasize car and van pooling. Commuters can join a car pool on Tuesday or van pool on Wednesday.

Thursday will focus on telecommuting, with participants checking out the WorkLink Telecommuting Center in St. Peters, Mo.

On Friday, bicycling and walking will be the focus, with a ride from the Delmar Loop area into downtown St. Louis.

"We are seeing heightened awareness about car pooling and the other alternatives as a result of the extensive coverage of the recent project and other road construction projects in the area," said Jane Smith, program manager for RideFinders. "We're confident that people who considered ridesharing or telecommuting to avoid construction-related traffic may try again."

RideShare Week is one more step toward adopting an alternative commute on an ongoing basis.

The program encourages alternative modes of transportation to help ease traffic congestion, reduce vehicle emissions and improve air quality in the St. Louis region.

Last year, more than 3,000 commuters pledged and participated in the program.

By signing a pledge card, the commuter enables RideFinders to give them a personalized match list of potential car pool or van pool partners with similar commutes.

Commuters completing a pledge card also are entered in a drawing for prizes ranging from a weekend getaway to Missouri wine country, Amtrak tickets and tickets to sporting events and movies.

"We try to develop prize packages that tie in with the various alternative transportation modes we promote, then add to them with additional entertainment items," Smith said. "Winners can pick the commuting prize package of their choice."

In previous years, RideShare Week was held in June, but representative Julie Hauser said it was changed to fall for two reasons.

By running the promotion in the fall, she said, the event gets more exposure than in the summer, when ozone awareness also is promoted.

She also said that because many people are on vacation in the summertime, it is a difficult time to begin using alternative transportation.

Pledge cards are available from coordinators at more than 170 area companies participating in RideShare Week; the MetroRide Store at St. Louis Center; as part of the fall issue of RideFinders Commuter Connection newsletter; or by calling 1-800-VIP-RIDE.

AROUND THE AREA

Here's what happened around the Metro East in the past week:

East St. Louis

150 urban experts offer expertise in creating master plan for city

East St. Louis residents and university experts met last week to try to find solutions to tough problems. About 150 representatives of university-community partnerships converged in East St. Louis last week for the 1998 U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Community Outreach Partnership Centers conference.

The three-day conference included daylong problem-solving sessions Thursday in downtown East St. Louis, Frank Holten State Park and the Alta Sita and Emerson Park neighborhoods. Mayor Gordon Bush praised the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign for helping civic groups revitalize neighborhoods. For the past decade, about 3,000 university students have compiled some 200 studies, reports and plans on environmental, economic and social problems.

The East St. Louis Action Resource Project's work with civic groups has produced about $3 million in new development, including the Farmer's Market, playgrounds, new housing and neighborhood cleanups. Diane Bonner, director of the Community Development Block Grant Operations Corp., said the key to the partnership is citizen involvement.

About 150 representatives of university-community partnerships converged in East St. Louis last week for the 1998 U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Community Outreach Partnership Centers conference.

The three-day conference included daylong problem-solving sessions Thursday in downtown East St. Louis, Frank Holten State Park and the Alta Sita and Emerson Park neighborhoods.

At a press conference Wednesday, Mayor Gordon Bush said the conference was another step in a "master plan" for rebuilding the city.

"There's a lot of brain power, experience...and track records that will be brought to bear here in East St. Louis," Bush said. "We think it's just one more part of what we need to develop our city."

Bush praised the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign for helping civic groups revitalize neighborhoods.

For the past decade, about 3,000 university students have compiled some 200 studies, reports and plans on environmental, economic and social problems.

The East St. Louis Action Resource Project's work with civic groups has produced about $3 million in new development, including the Farmer's Market, playgrounds, new housing and neighborhood cleanups.

Diane Bonner, director of the Community Development Block Grant Operations Corp., said the key to the partnership is citizen involvement.

"We are about the business of empowering our residents," said Bonner, whose agency handles many of the grant funds for East St. Louis. "We want our citizens to have the input they deserve."

The university has received $800,000 in three years from HUD for ES-LARP. Although the university not among the grant recipients this year, state funding and other grant sources have increased.

O'Fallon

Police to ride school buses

The O'Fallon Police Department, in cooperation with O'Fallon Central Schools and Laidlaw Bus Company, will soon be placing officers on school buses.

The project could begin as early as next week, Sgt. Mike Schaefer said Friday. The officers will be monitoring for motorists passing school buses while loading and unloading students, and will record the license plates of all violators.

The O'Fallon Police Department would like to remind motorists that they are not to pass a school bus, from either direction, while it is loading or unloading pupils, while its warning sign is extended and warning lights are activated.

Police said motorists who are convicted of this offense face a three-month suspension of their driver's license for the first offense. The second offense is a one-year suspension.

Fairview Heights

Southwestern wins center bid

Southwestern Illinois Hotels will develop a hotel/conference center complex in Fairview Heights.

The complex, known as the Fountains at Fairview, located on a 48-acre tract on Highway 159, was selected from two proposals presented to the city. The DESCO group presented the second proposal. The Finance Committee approved the selection on Sept. 23.

DESCO proposed a 159-room Hilton Garden Inn and conference center across the highway from the Fountains project on 72 acres.

Columbia

Sub-Mississippi pipeline plan dropped

Columbia residents will not be buying water from St. Louis via a sub-Mississippi River pipeline, at least not in the near future. Instead the city will continue to receive water from Illinois-American Water Co., but at a much lower price, and stands to get three-quarters of a million dollars to boot.

Plans for a pipe buried deep under the Mississippi have been in place almost two years, but at a meeting Tuesday morning representatives of the Metro-East Municipal Joint Action Water Agency met at Columbia City Hall and made the decision to stay with Illinois-American.

MEMJAWA includes the city of Columbia and the Cahokia Commonfields Water District, who joined forces more than a year ago in an effort to try to find cheaper, better water. The Commonfields water district serves Cahokia and Centerville.

Waterloo

Officials shy from 'moment of silence'

Waterloo School District officials say they don't oppose giving students a moment each school day to meditate or pray silently, but they apparently think making it a matter of school policy is problematic.

Board member Angela Wittman, who has championed "traditional value" issues since her 1995 election, reiterated her call for a daily moment of silent reflection at the district's Sept. 21 meeting. She said she first brought the idea to Superintendent Billy Taylor a year ago.

Wittman said that before joining the school board, she thought public education had an "anti-Christian" reputation.

She cited the district's refusal to permit a community-sponsored assembly recognizing "Christian Heritage Week" as declared by Gov. Jim Edgar in 1995 and the school board's refusal to allow the showing of a video on America's founding fathers' views on biblical morality produced by a private organization and offered to the school by a local group.

The district's four principals and curriculum director Barb Haas presented a united front against Wittman's idea. Haas said she had conferred with other administrators and "while we're certainly not opposed to a moment of silence, we talked about what type of problems that might cause."

Speaking for the administrators, Haas said some teachers "like students to arrive at class on-task" and imposing a moment of silent reflection might distract them.

Belleville

Masterworks turns 25

One music professor's love of music has given Belleville residents a quarter century of beautiful music. The Masterworks Chorus is celebrating its 25th anniversary.

Dr. A. Dennis Sparger started Masterworks Chorus as Community Chorus in 1974 at Belleville Area College. The first performance was the Messiah on Dec. 1, 1974. There were 62 singers.

Over the last 24 years, the chorus has had nearly 400 members. Many of these singers will return for the anniversary concert Oct. 3 at St. Peter Cathedral.

Dupo

Principal touts school consolidation

Dupo Grade School Principal Carl Buehler sees many advantages to consolidating the district's grade school students into one school.

In November, Dupo School District voters will vote on authorizing the school board to sell $2.1 million in bonds to build a new elementary school.

The state is expected to kick in $3 million for the school under its school construction program. Dupo is one of the top contenders to get the state funding.

Factors that determine who gets the grants include age of buildings, overcrowding and damage to facilities.

Dupo's three grade schools were built in the 1920s, making wiring for technology difficult and expensive, Buehler said.

Accessibility is another problem. Disabled students attend Hough School in north Dupo.

Buehler said one of the main advantages would be cost savings for heating and meals. Books, computers and other equipment could be used more efficiently in one location, he said.

statements. The death penalty was the focus Monday, with defense attorney Stephanie Robbins asking Judge Keshner to bar it from any sentence that may come down in Williams' retrial.

Robbins said it was "arbitrary and capricious" for the state to seek the death penalty for Williams when it only sought natural life for Coleman, who was said to be the mastermind behind the five slayings, which resulted from a plan by Coleman to steal drug money from one of the victims.

Robbins described Coleman as "a guy whose culpability (the state) could prove much more easily than they could (Williams)."

The State's Attorney's Office has maintained that Williams was the triggerman in the case, acting at Coleman's orders. However, Robbins said evidence proving Williams' guilt was never presented in trial.

Williams, who is now being held in Madison County Jail, was led into the courtroom in shackles on Monday, under close guard. He calmly watched the proceedings from the defense table.

During the hearing, Robbins called to the stand Janet Gandy Fowler, an attorney with the 5th District Appellate Court Public Defender's Office in Mount Vernon. She has been representing defendant Coleman during his appeal.

Under oath, Fowler recounted a conversation she had with Assistant State's Attorney Keith Jensen on Aug. 24, in which Jensen allegedly told her that he had no plans to seek the death penalty in the retrial.

The statement outraged Jensen. "Miss Fowler is either mistaken or is not telling the truth to this court," Jensen said.

In response to questions from Keshner, Jensen said he is ready to retry to case. Robbins, however, said she would probably need 90 days.

Keshner gave Jensen five days to provide citation cases supporting the call for the death penalty.

Agne, a community planner with the Southwestern Illinois Planning Commission, which developed the plan.

"We're tying together parks, points of interest, existing trails, proposed trails and watersheds that might promote preservation of green space so we don't pave the three-county area from one corner to the other," she said. "We're really growing at such a fantastic rate. We want to make sure there are open spaces preserved."

It is an attempt to balance "sensible growth" and the need for jobs and economic development with the environment.

"Growth that respects community character and quality of the landscape is achievable," said Agne. "The Metro-East Regional Greenway Plan is one tool that communities can use to combat growth that makes our community indistinguishable from the next."

The planning process for the report took place in three regional open house forums earlier this year in Madison, Monroe and St. Clair counties.

Today's hearing will also be the last chance for public input on the plan.

"We're really interested in getting the general public to see the Agne plan," Agne said. "Agencies that anticipate seeking IDNR recreation funds — such as cities, counties and park districts — are being urged to attend because their projects fit into the plan."

within five years, possibly much sooner.

At Tuesday's meeting, Echols also told the council that attorneys hired by the city to negotiate with bondholders over the status of bonds have said that they would have a proposal for the council to consider within about two weeks.

About $4.3 million in outstanding bonds came due today.

At the last meeting, the council approved hiring the Thompson Coburn law firm of St. Louis to deal with negotiations with bondholders.

In part because of increased spending on maintenance and inspection for the bridge, officials have said the city would not be able to make the scheduled payments.

At the recommendation of consulting engineers, the city has doubled both the repair crews and inspection crews for the bridge at a cost of about $700,000 per year.

Warriors survive at Belleville West

Smith, Margrave deliver goals as Granite City posts 2-1 win

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Monday's Southwestern Conference soccer game between Granite City and Belleville West at Laderman Park in Belleville was eventful for many reasons.

Boys Soccer

First, Granite City beat the Maroons 2-1 to remain unbeaten in conference play.

Second, the Warriors survived the physical game without any major injuries.

"That is a dirty soccer team," Granite City coach Gene Baker said of West.

Baker tried to tell that to the officials. Early in the second half, he picked up two yellow cards in succession and was thrown out.

"On my ejection, I said, 'Sir, what is the yellow card for?' And he gave me the second yellow," Baker said.

"That costs me a game," Baker, the winningest coach in Illinois prep soccer history, had to miss Wednesday's game against O'Fallon, leaving the Warriors under the direction of assistant coach Dave Ames.

"They had senior night tonight," Baker said of the Maroons, "and I had my kids lined up to please the game to show them respect, and then they play like that."

Corey Winfield also picked up a yellow card for Granite City while Belleville West's Ryan Harres, Seth Morris and Chris Dietrich all were booked.

Belleville West went to great efforts to try to impose their size on the smaller Warriors lineup. During the game, Granite City's Mike Smith and Corey Winfield were hauled down from behind. Bob Scott took a forearm shiver and was booked. And Jared MacMillian had a punch thrown at his head, which missed.

MacMillian also was banged up on a body-block at the center line, which left him limping for a while.

"Jarod competes so hard," Baker said. "That play could have ended his season."

The Warriors not only overcame West's rough style but also a 1-0 deficit to advance to 11-3-2.

Midway through the first half, Belleville West forward Ryan Jacob found himself alone in front of the Granite City goal with Warriors keeper Brandon Williams in his way. Jacob shot and scored. Despite protests from Granite City about offsides, the Maroons led 1-0.

Granite City tied the game soon after Baker's ejection. In the second half, Corey Winfield found Mike Smith in front of the net, and Smith put it home to tie the game at 1-1.

"Corey beat a couple of guys," Smith said. "I turned around and hit it one time. It was a great pass by Corey."

Smith was playing his first game after serving a suspension. "It was good to get back," he said. "I was kind of out of game shape for a while, but I got it back."

With just a few minutes remaining in the game, MacMillian and leading scorer Dave Margrave hooked up for the game-winning goal.

MacMillian, a defender, made a run at the West defense. He chested the ball down, drove to the end line, and lofted a pass over to Dave Margrave on the far post. Margrave got up and headed it in for the game-winning goal.

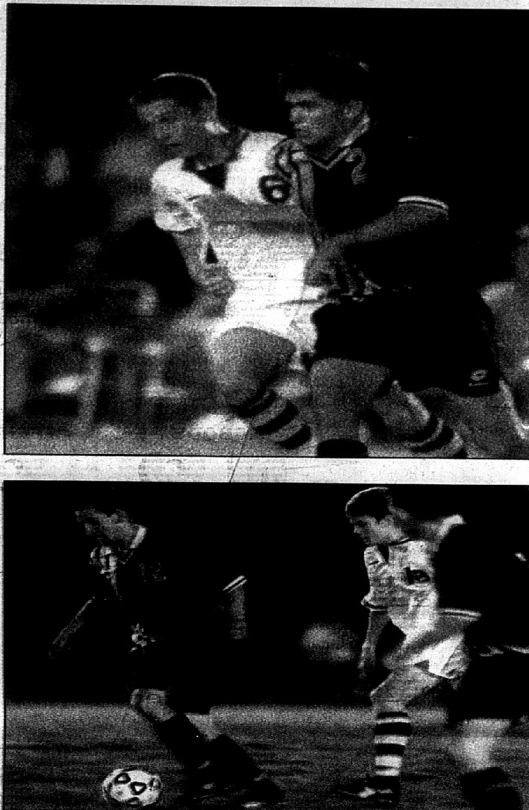

"I saw Mac making a run through," Margrave said. "The man who was marking me went to him. Mac played a great ball, and I saw the keeper run out, saw the goal open, and just went to it."

Margrave used his head for the winning goal. He has six game-winning goals as well as the Warriors defeated Belleville East 2-1 in the third-place game at the Hazelwood (Mo.) Central Tournament. He scored two goals in that game.

"They've just been coming lately," said Margrave, who has six game-winning goals this year. "I've been getting great passes to my head."

After the goal, Margrave was tackled and knocked to the ground. They pushed him in the back, but he's tough. He takes a licking and keeps on ticking. He just sticks to it."

The Warriors will have to face Belleville West again this season—and soon. The two teams will meet Monday in the first round of the Granite City Tournament of Champions.

Lancers will limp into game with Granite City

PREP FOOTBALL

Belleville East finds itself in an awkward position heading into Friday's game with Granite City at Township Stadium in Belleville.

The Lancers, who finished with a 6-0 mark to win the Southwestern Conference championship last season, lost a conference game last Friday night to the unbeaten Kahoks. The IHSA Class 5A playoff berth last year, the Lancers are now 3-2 and scrapping for a spot in the playoffs this season.

Last Friday night at Collinsville, Belleville East dropped a 21-13 decision to the unbeaten Kahoks. The Lancers' bid to tie the game came up short when quarterback Tony Patterson was stopped shy of the end zone on the final play of the game.

"Collinsville won the game and they well-deserved it," Belleville East coach Mike McGinnis said. "Tony did a wonderful job and our guys did a wonderful job."

Patterson has made a career out of doing a wonderful job. After guiding the Lancers to last year's playoff berth, he has posted some outstanding games in his senior season.

In a Sept. 12 game against DeSmet, he ran 10 times for 79 yards and three touchdowns and completed 9 of 17 passes for 195 yards and three touchdowns as the host Lancers rolled to a 48-13 victory.

"Tony has always been a steady performer with athletic skills," McGinnis said. "Last year he was somewhat reserved in the first few games, but you could see he had the tools."

"Each game, Tony started to understand more and more of what he was going and started to use his talent. He did a great job with the option."

The victory against DeSmet and the Lancers' 27-0 conference triumph against Belleville West were part of a three-game win streak in which the Lancers outscored opponents 102-13.

football players this year," Shannon said. "We have only 47 players at all four levels. I'm not running a country club here just to get the numbers up."

The kids know I run a tight ship and expect commitment and dedication. A lot of them don't want to be part of this."

Shannon's tough stance played well in East St. Louis, but is not doing so well at Alton, where the coach says the kids aren't as hungry to play football as they were at East St. Louis.

"They don't see football as a way to go to college," Shannon says. "They get into the work force at a fast-food restaurant and stay in there too long. They don't see the big picture."

Some of Alton's personnel situations have been so ridiculous that they are almost comical. For instance, just before the Redbirds were to take on powerful Edwardsville, Alton's top two running backs went down to injuries, leaving Shannon with a 125-pound junior as his main running threat. Then, after Alton played East St. Louis tough, one of Shannon's top

The other foe was Cahokia, which defeated Granite City in the season opener.

The Warriors defense cannot focus solely on Patterson's running. For East's other backs, he has shown the ability to throw this season.

"We're still not like (the NFL), but we're passing the ball a little more than we used to," McGinnis said. "With his play-action passes and quick drops, he shows the ability to hit guys. He has a great demeanor for a quarterback and he has great presence in the huddle and on the field."

Granite City is aware of how the loss may have riled Belleville East, which must still confront East St. Louis and Edwardsville in conference games as it tries to gain a playoff berth.

"From what we've seen of Belleville East, we think they'll be one heck of a team," Granite City coach Nick Petrillo said. "They have a huge offensive line, an outstanding quarterback and two good running backs. We'll have to strap it down and get a bit more confidence. "We've played them tough in the past, and I don't see any reason to believe we won't play them tough again."

A young defense and a lack of scoring have hurt the Kahoks this season, Rowden says. His team has been competitive in most of the games against the likes of Channahon, DeSmet and CBC—all Missouri powers and Illinois toughies like Granite City, Belleville East and O'Fallon.

Rowden isn't dwelling on the fact Chris Choate, who was expected to be the team's top offensive threat this season, transferred to CBC in St. Louis.

"We can't worry about what could have been," he says. "You have to go with the players you have."

Rowden says his team has played well for stretches of "20, 25 and 30 minutes." But he admits, even then the results haven't been there, because the team hasn't been able to score.

Answers to the trivia challenge

Here are the answers to last week's trivia quiz that appeared in this spot. To be considered a trivia expert, you must get 51 points.

Here we go with the answers:

1. Who composed the brother-and-sister team that won at Wimbledon in the 1980s? The answer is John and Tracy Austin. (two points)

2. Most RBIs in the 1986 World Series? The answer is 96. (two points)

3. The five men who have both played and managed for the New York Mets? Gil Hodges, Yogi Berra, Roy McMillan, Joe Torre, and Bud Harrelson. (Give yourself a point for each player/manager that you named.)

4. The five nicknames shared by professional teams from Major League Baseball, the NHL, the NBA or the NFL? New York and Texas share the Rangers; Tennessee (formerly Houston) and Edmonton are the Oilers; Phoenix and St. Louis share the Cardinals (especially last Sunday); and Los Angeles and Sacramento are the Kings. (Give yourself a point for each nickname that you knew and one more for knowing New York and Winnipeg were the Jets before the NHL team became the Phoenix Coyotes.)

5. The only player to hit home runs for four different teams in the same season (Mets, Angels, Padres and Yankees) is Dave Kingman. (two points)

6. In the 1981 strike-shortened season, the Cincinnati Reds won more games than any other team, yet failed to make the playoffs. (two points)

7. The direct distance from home plate to second base? It's 127 feet and 3 1/2 inches, if you are picky. (two points)

11. Famous home runs given up by pitchers? Al Downing, Hank Aaron's 75th, Tracy Stallard, Roger Maris' 61st, Tom Zachary—the Babe's 60th. (One point each.)

12. The diameter of a hockey puck? Three inches. (two points)

13. In 1959, Harvey Haddix was perfect for 12 innings for Pittsburgh, only to lose in the 13th. The Braves pitcher went the distance, scattering 12 hits... all singles. The winner that night was Lew Burdette. (two points)

14. On Oct. 19, 1966, Don Larsen of the Yankees pitched a perfect game in the World Series against the Dodgers. The Yankees themselves got only five hits en route to a 2-0 win against losing pitcher Sal Maglie. The final batter for the Dodgers was pinch-hitter Dale Mitchell, who was called out on strikes on a pitch up around his eyes. (four points)

Alton's Shannon, Collinsville's Rowden suffer through tough starts

Between them they have eight state championships. They are considered among the top high school coaches in the state. One is nationally acclaimed.

Yet, as of last weekend, the renowned pair had only two victories in 14 games this fall.

They are Bob Shannon, the head football coach at Alton Senior High School, and Ron Rowden, the head soccer coach at Collinsville High School. The two are getting to know how the other half lives.

Yet, don't count them out. The two highly professional coaches are keeping the faith and putting everything in perspective.

"I'm always optimistic," said Bob Shannon, the former East St. Louis coach who is in his third season at Alton. "I'm seeing some progress. We just have to keep getting better."

After six state titles at East St. Louis, Shannon moved on to Alton after bucking heads with the administration at East St. Louis. His teams at Alton have gone 2-7 and 5-4 before getting off to a 1-4 start this season.

"I thought we'd be better this year," Shannon said. "But our line is not doing the job I thought it would. We really have no running game. This is the first time that I've been coaching that I don't have the balance between running and passing."

Shannon's hard-line discipline hasn't set well with the kids at Alton. He has only three seniors on the team and many students have decided not to come out for the team knowing what is expected from them.

"We have only 15 legitimate varsity players this year," Shannon said. "We have only 47 players at all four levels. I'm not running a country club here just to get the numbers up."

The kids know I run a tight ship and expect commitment and dedication. A lot of them don't want to be part of this."

Shannon's tough stance played well in East St. Louis, but is not doing so well at Alton, where the coach says the kids aren't as hungry to play football as they were at East St. Louis.

"They don't see football as a way to go to college," Shannon says. "They get into the work force at a fast-food restaurant and stay in there too long. They don't see the big picture."

Some of Alton's personnel situations have been so ridiculous that they are almost comical. For instance, just before the Redbirds were to take on powerful Edwardsville, Alton's top two running backs went down to injuries, leaving Shannon with a 125-pound junior as his main running threat. Then, after Alton played East St. Louis tough, one of Shannon's top defensive backs, who intercepted a pass against the Flyers, turned in his uniform the following Monday. He quit the team. So has his back-up quarterback.

"It's frustrating," Shannon admits. "There isn't the stigma about quitting like it used to be. In my days, when you quit, that meant you just didn't measure up."

Shannon says he isn't about to change his approach to the game.

"Yeah, I can change," he says. "And I have changed over the years. But for me to change like the kids want me to change that would translate into mediocrity, and I'm not ready for that."

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED

Attorney At Law

Recently a man contacted this office and indicated his wife of ten years wanted a divorce (dissolution of marriage). She was telling him that she was entitled to one-half of his pension plan. He wanted to know if this was true.

Generally speaking, the portion of a person's pension or profit-sharing plan which has vested during the term of the marriage is "marital property" which will be divided between the parties in the event of a divorce. Among the factors considered by a court when dividing marital property are the length of the marriage, the comparative income of the husband and wife, the health of the parties, the number of children, and the lifestyle to which they have become accustomed.

In one recent case, a man and woman got married in 1986. It was the second marriage for both parties. She was previously divorced in 1984 and had two children by the previous marriage. He was divorced in 1983 and had no children. The wife had an excellent job at Illinois Power and had a profit-sharing plan which was vested in the amount of $80,000 at the time of her second marriage. The husband was a self-employed laborer and had no pension or profit sharing plan. The couple decided to obtain a divorce in 1995. There were no children born to this marriage. The house was sold, and they agreed to divide the equity in the home. They also were in agreement as to how to divide the bills. One of the principal areas of contention involved the money in her pension plan.

At the time of this (her second) divorce, the wife's vested share in her pension plan was more than $250,000. The husband argued that the difference between the $250,000 vested in 1985 and the $80,000 vested in 1986 was marital property, and that he was entitled to one-half of it. The court agreed with him and he was awarded $85,000 from her pension plan.

As is evident from this example, if a person obtains several divorces in his or her lifetime, he or she can erode a pension or profit-sharing plan substantially. The only way a party can protect himself in a later marriage is to have his future spouse sign a prenuptial agreement waiving any interest in the retirement plan in the event of a subsequent divorce.

Troop attends special ceremony

Nine Boy Scouts, one leader participate in Order of the Arrow

Maxine Green

Sponsored by Long Lake Fire Department, Boy Scout Troop 46 had nine scouts, Jacob Whited, David Heck, Daniel Heck, Adam Johnson, Joe Ravanello and one leader, Marsha Kumle, attend the Order of the Arrow Sept. 11-13 at Warren Levins Camp.

The scouts voted on and chose their fellow scouts. Participants must have 80 percent of the vote and complete 15 days of camping to become first-class scouts.

All attending became members of the Order of the Arrow.

After becoming a member, scouts may choose to commit to the Order of the Arrow by offering their membership to the Brotherhood of Friendly Service, Scout Brian Whited did this during the weekend.

J. Wyatt, scoutmaster of Troop 46, was chosen for the highest honor in the Order of the Arrow, the Virgil Honor.

The award recognizes distinguished contributions to scouting and the order through exceptional service, personal commitment and unselfish interest in the welfare of others beyond immediate responsibilities.

Wyatt is a member of Kiskadee Lodge of the Trails West Council. Thanks goes to him from the troop.

Marsha Workman has returned to her home in Boaz, Ky., after spending several days visiting her mother, Susie Horton, of Maryville Road.

Dr. Scott Price, New Testament Professor Church Planter Missionary to Romania, will be conducting a "Lord of the Harvest" soul-winning conference Oct. 4 through Oct. 7 at the West 22nd Street Baptist Church, 2800 W. 22nd St.

Nightly services will begin at 7 p.m. with special music every night. The public is invited.

Held in August, the Sports Camp, sponsored by the Madison County Baptist Association, had 37 children enrolled with attendance of 33 for the week.

George Sykes Sr. helped in directing the camp, and the guest coach was Haig Nighosian, who coaches senior girls soccer in Belleville.

Other instructors were Craig Kathy and Karen Sykes, Don Cook Jr. and Trina Tsigolarioff.

Bible lessons were taught in three age groups. Teachers were David Roderick, youth minister at Suburban, and the Rev. Richard Harmon, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Mitchell.

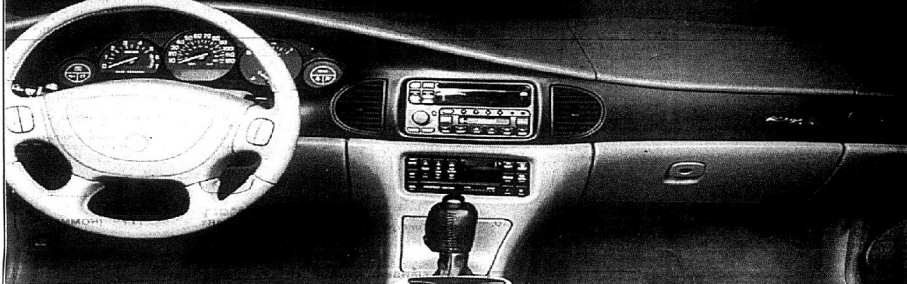

Jane Raphael planned and prepared camp refreshment time. Carolyn Sykes filled in for absent adults, and Cindy Hall helped in making T-shirts. Thanks to all for making the camp a success.

The September pot luck dinner for seniors was held Saturday evening in the Pontoon Beach Senior Citizen Hall. After the meal, the group spent the rest of the evening playing bingo.

Those attending were Earl and Rose Edmiston, Carol Knight, Lou and Jackie Trgovich, Carol Carter, Marie Benson, Everett and Alice Hudson, Lottie O. Glove Box Directory

Illinois Department of Transportation provides motorist assist call boxes every 1/2 mile in the urbanized areas of the metro-east on I-64, I-55/70, I-270, and I-255 except in the congested poplar street complex area. The call boxes give the motorist the option to manually choose the type of assistance required: service, ambulance, or accident. Emergency patrol vehicles will respond to the all boxes 7 days a week except between the time period of 12:00 AM and 6:00 AM. No service is provided during that time period, but emergencies are still responded by the state police. The emergency patrol vehicles will typically respond within 15 minutes unless the vehicle is involved with an emergency at another location. Motorist call boxes are not available in the poplar street complex due to the limited shoulder width and high volume of traffic. The area is being constantly patrolled in approximately 15 minute intervals 24 hours a day. The motorist should remain in their vehicles and wait for the emergency patrol vehicles to assist them.

NEWS IN REVIEW

Editor's note: News in Review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is intended for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record-Journals.

St. Clair County files suit against Madison

MADISON — The St. Clair County State's Attorney's Office is seeking to nullify a series of annexations by the city of Madison.

The properties include areas near the Illinois 203 and Interstate 55-70 interchange that also have been annexed by Fairmont City.

Madison Mayor John Hamm said the city plans to fight the county's action and would probably be filing some kind of counter-suit in the case.

The suit was filed last week, citing the state's attorney's powers to challenge the legality of the city's action.

The new lawsuit was filed Sept. 16 at the St. Clair County Courthouse and delivered to Madison City Hall late Friday. It alleges that eight Madison annexations between Feb. 13, 1996, and June 2, 1998, including overlapping annexations between Madison and Fairmont City — are illegal because the properties were not contiguous to Madison.

If successful, the lawsuit would give Fairmont City officials a clear uncontested avenue to annex the St. Louis National Stockyards and could stall further annexations by Madison. However, if Madison wins, it would block Fairmont City from further annexations.

Woman, 17, dies in car crash

GRANITE CITY — A Madison County woman was killed Saturday in a one-car accident near Granite City.

Shelly N. Lea, 17, from Pekin was pronounced dead at 11:22 p.m. at St. Elizabeth Medical Center one hour after the accident.

Lea was a passenger in a car driven by David Oretz, 21, of Granite City. According to the Madison County Coroner's report, Oretz suffered minor injuries.

Oretz was driving south on Old Alton Road when he apparently lost control while trying to turn onto Schaffer. He was driving a 1987 Pontiac Firebird, hit a utility pole and support wire, became airborne and landed in a field. Lea apparently was not wearing a seat belt and was thrown from the car.

The Madison County Sheriff's Department is investigating.

Gateway expansion goal is to seat 100,000 fans

MADISON — Gateway International Raceway in Madison may double its capacity to more than 100,000 fans by next year.

At a meeting of the Southwestern Illinois Council of Mayors Thursday, Rod Walter, president and general manager of GIR, said Gateway is now planning to add almost 50,000 seats to the oval track by next year.

Walter said Friday that the rapid expansion is being fueled by the merger of Grand Prix Association of Long Beach, Calif., GIR's parent company, and Dover Downs International. GALB recently became a wholly-owned subsidiary of Dover Downs.

Walter said the raceway is planning to add more seats along the main grandstand area and will add grandstands to both turns.

Jennifer Gaetano, a public relations specialist with GALB, also confirmed the plans for a more rapid expansion.

Previously, both Walter and GALB CEO Chris Pook had said Gateway planned to add about 30,000 seats in the next year, then bring the total up to approximately 100,000 the following year.

That 100,000 figure is the "magic number" needed to hold a Winston Cup Series NASCAR race.

Hazardous waste collection slated for Oct. 24

GRANITE CITY — In conjunction with the Illinois Environmental Protection Day, Granite City Steel Division of National Steel is sponsoring a household hazardous waste collection day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Oct. 24 at 1417 State St.

The collection will be set up at the South Plant parking lot. A certified waste disposal personnel will be on hand to take care of the waste.

Items collectors will accept are household paints, paint thinner, herbicides, insecticides, pesticides, old gasoline, pool chemicals, cleaning products, car batteries, lead acid batteries, household batteries, used motor oil, drain cleaners, lawn chemicals, solvents, antifreeze, hobby chemicals, aerosol paints, pesticides and fluorescent light bulbs.

Items that will not be accepted are agricultural wastes, business-commercial sector wastes, explosives, fireworks, compressed tanks, cylinders, smoke detectors, farm machinery, oil, fire extinguishers, yard waste, tires, refrigerators, stoves, water heaters or other household appliances.

For more information, call 451-3459 or 451-3391.

Police officer indicted for unreasonable force

MADISON COUNTY — A Brooklyn police officer who allegedly used unreasonable force in firing his weapon at someone was among federal grand jury indictments handed down in East St. Louis Sept. 23.

Adolph Bradley, 72, of Lebanon, a part-time officer for Brooklyn, was indicted on one count of a civil rights violation involving deprivation of rights under color of law and could face up to 10 years in prison and a $250,000 fine if convicted.

Local police said the incident involved Bradley shooting through the rear window of a car after the driver ran a stop sign.

The case was investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

James L. Liddell, 42, of Indianapolis, Ind., was indicted on a federal bank robbery charge. He is accused of stealing more than $1,000 in cash from Magna Bank in Granite City on Aug. 28.

He also could face a maximum of 10 years and a $250,000 fine.

In another case, Derrick Barefield, 21, of the 300 block of Meridocia in Venice, was charged with one count of distribution of crack cocaine within 1,000 feet of public housing. If convicted, Barefield could face up to 30 years in federal prison, a $4 million fine, and at least eight years of supervised release.

Selective Service System is now on-line

The Internet now can be used to find out if a man is registered with the Selective Service System.

"This will make registration verification easier for men in millions of computer households," said Gil Coronado, director of the Selective Service System in Arlington, Va., the government agency responsible for conducting a draft in a national emergency.

"It will also make it easy for officials dispensing federal and state benefits or privileges linked to registration to check and see if a young man is registered before he is deemed eligible for the benefit," he said, adding that the Selective Service System celebrates its 68th anniversary in September. The agency was created on Sept. 16, 1940.

There are many federal and state benefits linked to the registration requirement. These include federal student assistance (Pell Grants and college loans), job training under the Job Training Partnership Act and eligibility for jobs in the executive branch of the government, including jobs with the U.S. Postal Service.

Eligibility for citizenship also may be affected if a young man was required to register but failed to do so. Additionally, half of all the states have legislation supporting Selective Service. Several states deny enrollment in state colleges and universities to young men who are required to register but have not done so. Many states refuse state employment to those young men not registered with Selective Service.

The Selective Service web site is located at www.sss.gov. By entering a man's last name, Social Security number and date of birth, the computer will research the database and display on the screen the man's Selective Service number and effective date of registration.

Young men must register within 30 days of their 18th birthday, in accordance with federal law. More than 38 million men have registered since 1980; however, none have been drafted. The last draft ended in 1973.

Hundreds enjoy last look before transformation

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

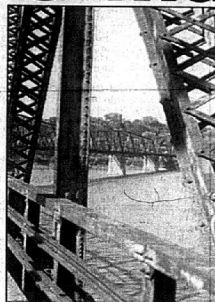

Nature huffed and puffed Saturday but failed to blow away enthusiasts visiting the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge.

The high winds racing up the Mississippi — probably a result of Hurricane Georges — didn't bother Dean Ammon, 65, of Collinsville. A member of the Route 66 Association of Illinois, Ammon said he's known the bridge for a long time.

"It goes back to when I was a kid. (This bridge) was the only one around here," he said.

Being a member of the Route 66 group for four years wasn't enough, he said, so he "re-upped" for seven more years.

"We do some real nice tours (of Route 66) in Illinois and stop at all the little towns along the way," he said. Ammon said he collects Route 66 memorabilia. Gazing up into the superstructure of the bridge, though, he shook his head.

"Shame kids had to take out the lights," he said, nodding at the unique fixtures that lit the bridge in its heyday.

Trailnet Inc. celebrated its 10th anniversary Friday with a unique fund-raiser on the bridge itself, then opened the old, beloved structure to the public the next day. The bridge now is closed for repainting efforts, which will include the removal of lead-based paint, a potential health risk.

Nostalgia played only a small part in the weekend's festivities, as parents brought their children to explore the bridge and cyclists got a taste of riding or coasting the mile-long bridge.

Sandie LaMantia enjoyed the bridge for a more practical reason Friday and Saturday. She and Tommy Jateff, Jamie Jateff, Pete Jateff and Nancy Jateff, all owners of Bridges Neighborhood Bar and Grill, 3145 W. Chain of Rocks Road, served up some good grub from their restaurant.

Staged at the bridge's unique bend, LaMantia and the others had the pleasure of serving dinner while the Smokehouse All-Stars dished up bluegrass sounds for the fund-raiser.

(See BRIDGE, Page 2C)

Hundreds turned out for Trailnet's fund-raiser dinner Friday and open house Saturday on the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge. Clockwise, from top left, are: the unique and familiar bend in the bridge, shown looking towards the Missouri side; visitors make their way up and down the gentle slope on the Missouri side; guests enjoy dinner Friday night while the Smokehouse All-Stars play their bluegrass; Carole Rogers and Marilyn Agles chat at picnic tables set at the bend; hungry bridge enthusiasts dig into Friday evening's meal.

Heritage America is this weekend

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Cahokia Mounds' annual tribute to the area's Native American culture gets under way at 6 p.m. Friday.

Among the highlights of the three-day Heritage America is a special performance by the Comanche Tu-We-Kaw dancers on Saturday afternoon. Thedance tells the story of the capture of a U.S. Army Cavalry sword.

The performance is part of an effort by the Comanche Nation to revive many of its old dances, some of which have not been done in more than 30 years.

While the Mounds has sponsored the event in the past, this year it is sponsored by the Illinois Cultural American Indian Committee.

Heritage American runs from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday; 1 to 10 p.m. Saturday; and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Parking is available on-site and spill-over parking is available on the former GrandPa's parking lot, across from the site.

About 15,000 people attended last year.

'Streetcar' set for Miner's opening

CATS shows its versatility with Williams' classic drama

By Alene Hill
Staff writer

Collinsville Area Theatrical Society will close its fifth season with Tennessee Williams' dramatic masterpiece "A Streetcar Named Desire."

The play will be shown this Friday, Saturday and Sunday, as well as Oct. 9 and 10 at Miner's Theatre.

"Streetcar Named Desire" opened on Broadway in 1947 with Jessica Tandy in the role of Blanche DuBois and Marlon Brando as Stanley Kowalski.

Brando repeated the role for the 1951 movie with Vivien Leigh in Tandy's role as Blanche, Kim Hunter as Stella and Karl Malden as Harold.

Williams' best-known story is about Blanche, an aging Southern school teacher who goes to visit her sister, Stella, and brother-in-law, Stanley, who live in the old French Quarters in New Orleans.

Blanche is appalled by her sister's living conditions and then by the news that her sister is pregnant. She takes solace in the company of Stanley's lonely friend Harold Mitchell, who Blanche begins to dream of marrying.

But the hostility created by Blanche's presence leads to a revelation of her tragic self-delusion and in the end to

Stella will be played by Jamie Haines, a Granite City resident who also appeared as Frieda in the CATS production of "Clockwork Orange."

CATS' season and is one of the group's more challenging undertakings, director Shelly Hayden said.

Hayden said the decision to do the show in the adopted hometown of Tennessee Williams' brother, Dakin Williams, was a coincidence, although the group has talked to him about the production and has sent tickets.

"The board didn't choose to do it because of that," she said. "It was a result of our commitment to take on classical theater and do it in such a way that we can never be pegged as a group that only does comedy or musicals. We've always been known for putting on a production a notch above typical community theater. This should prove our versatility."

The drama is not recommended for children. Tickets are $7 and are available at Jonathan's Photo 55, St. Charles and the Collinsville Chamber of Commerce. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. except for the 2 p.m. Sunday matinee.

'Shadrach' adds a chapter to Southern film tradition

Flawless acting makes movie worth seeing

What is there about the backwaters of Dixie that pumps the creative juices of writers and filmmakers?

From "Tobacco Road" to "Forrest Gump," from "Baby Doll" to "Ulee's Gold," scarcely a Southern county has been overlooked.

"Shadrach" continues this long tradition. Based on a short story by William Styron, it has been lovingly translated to the screen by his daughter, Susanna Styron, who served as director and co-writer with Bridget Terry. Hardly more than a vignette, the film is flawlessly acted by a pair of professionals, Harvey Keitel and Andie MacDowell, and two newcomers, an old man and a young boy.

Paul Whitehurst (Scott Terra), 10, is the only child of well-mannered, middle-class parents in a Virginia hamlet during the Depression. A dutiful, churchgoing son, Paul is nevertheless attracted to the Dabneys, a large, impoverished and ill-mannered family whose ancestors owned a plantation.

Vernon Dabney (Keitel) presides over the family. A blustery, bigoted, profane man, his skills are limited to producing moonshine in a wooded hideaway. His wife Trixie (MacDowell) directs the children's activities, beer bottle in hand.

The Whitehurst parents must leave for Baltimore because of a death in the family. Against their better judgment, they accede to their son's pleas to be allowed to stay with the Dabneys. Paul immediately abandons his well-scrubbed life as he joins his earthy neighbors.

Along comes Shadrach. He is a former slave nearing the end of his 99 years. He has walked all the way from Alabama to Virginia so he can be buried among his family on the old Dabney plantation.

At first Vernon rejects the idea of caring for the old man. But he is overruled by his wife and children. As Shadrach's

Dueling bug movies are about to hit the screen

First space rocks. Now ants.

In the next few weeks, two computer-animated movies about ants will be released. DreamWorks' "Antz," led by the voice of Woody Allen, is out Friday, and the Disney Co.'s "A Bug's Life," featuring the voice of Dave Foley ("NewsRadio") as the lead ant, is to be released nationwide Nov. 25.

This would all be only mildly interesting in a year that already has given us two comet-asteroid movies, except for one thing: the involvement of Jeffrey Katzenberg, the executive who left Disney amid much ill-will and co-founded DreamWorks with Steven Spielberg and David Geffen.

Follow the ant trails and it raises questions of whether Katzenberg knew about Disney's "A Bug's Life" when he was cleaning out his desk as studio chief there, and whether he rushed out a rival insect movie at DreamWorks to sting his former employer.

In recent weeks, the off-the-record sniping among those involved in both movies has reached a background roar in Hollywood. Katzenberg has denied knowing about Disney's movie when he approved "Antz." Executives for the producers of "A Bug's Life" declined to comment. The directors of the two films, expressed ignorance about the competition.

"We concentrated on making our film the best film that we could," said John Lasseter, who directed "A Bug's Life." "We had been working on our film for about a year and half when we found out they were making theirs. We were disappointed, but we concentrated on making our own film."

Lasseter declined to discuss any other issues linked to the rival movies, saying: "I would frankly just like to talk about our movie."

Eric Darnell, one of the two directors of "Antz," said that Katzenberg offered suggestions about story and character, but that the movie never wavered from its 7-year-old premise about a little critter with big hopes.

"The last thing I wanted to do is make decisions about our film by making second-guesses about what is in somebody else's film," said Darnell.

When examining the saga of the dueling ant movies, however, it hard to ignore the startling coincidences and behind-the-scenes workings.

It begins on Aug. 23, 1994, when Disney issued a press release announcing the resignation of Katzenberg. Two days later, Lasseter, of the

Monster trucks to hit Tri-City dirt

Event set for Friday and Saturday

Monster Truck Mania hits the dirt at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Tri-City Speedway.

The Original Monster Truck, seven-time champion and hometown hero, Bigfoot, has issued the challenge to the stars of TV monster truck racing, including Samson, Bulldozer, Sting, Equalizer and the latest entry from the St. Louis monster truck camp, Firestone Wilderness.

New for Monster Truck Mania is the Pro Arena Truck Challenge, as featured on TNN's Motor Madness. Everything from street legal, stock four-wheel drive pickups to beefed-up customized race trucks take their shot at the bone-jarring obstacle course of destruction of Tri-City Speedway. Rhythm sections, double-jumps, slaloms are where tomorrow's monster truck drivers sink their teeth — or lose them.

Those who think they have what it takes (or think they would enjoy repairing their trucks) and want to enter the Pro Arena Truck Challenge should call 229-2622.

Making a special appearance at Monster Mania is Galactron, the "intergalactic transformer," to battle Reptar.

Tri-City Speedway, located just south of Interstate 270 on Illinois 203, features one of the longest and fastest monster truck tracks in the country. Gates open at 6 p.m. both evenings, and fans are encouraged to go down to the track to meet the drivers and get autographs and photos.

Advance tickets are $3 off at Bigfoot 4X4, I-270 and North Lindbergh in Hazelwood, Mo., or by phone at (314) 469-9666. There are two special ticket promotions for Friday night advance tickets only: Fans with a WIL 92 Loyal Listener Card can go to Bigfoot 4X4 only and receive four tickets for $30. Friday advance child's tickets, available only at McKay Auto Parts stores, get a coupon redeemable for a free Bigfoot collectible toy.

Bigfoot is the feature attraction at this weekend's Monster Mania at Tri-City Speedway.

death seems near, Vernon begins to prepare for the burial. But the sheriff admonishes him that burial on private ground is forbidden in Virginia. Vernon faces the choice of paying for a professional burial or flaunting the law, as he does with his still.

A graduate of the American Film Institute, Susanna Styron evidences tendencies of former film students: shooting through foliage, use of slow motion, etc. But she shows real talent in dealing with characters; all of the actors in "Shadrach" seem real and rooted in the Depression-stricken 1930s.

Keitel is expert in domineering roles, and he shines as the rough but fair-minded paterfamilias. The usually elegant Andie MacDowell seems to enjoy playing the slovenly wife and mother.

John Franklin Sawyer brings a commanding presence to the role of the old ex-slave; it would have been fascinating to learn more about his life, not just his death. Terra is another of those amazing actors whose fresh face reflects all the wonder of youth.

HOROSCOPE
FRIDAY,
OCTOBER 2

The moon is getting a positive boost from the sun, Mercury and Venus in balanced Libra today. You'll feel as if you have been given added strength in your convictions and the ability to communicate them eloquently. Mars in Virgo keeps you from making any rash decisions, but be more realistic than trusting if you want success!

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Your creativity will excite and inspire a romantic partner. This weekend shows you twists and turns, so stay flexible. You have tremendous luck in public speaking, presentations and sales.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Many of the steps you take to gain lasting love are effortless once you conquer your fear. When in doubt, talk it out — and delve deep. Casual chatter can have far-reaching effects. Fellow earth signs get you going.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Your hunches and intuitions are tempered by your caution. In love, give as much as you're able to. To get the proper perspective on your personal life, you may need to step back from the spotlight and re-evaluate.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Slow down, and enjoy where you are in the present. When you actively engage others, the attention you receive is invigorating. Money matters take a turn for the better after months of miscommunication.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Keep alert to romantic competitors who try and conceal their moves. It's time for you to take a bow and accept the adulation that comes your way. Others want to know your secrets. A mystery is publicly revealed.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 2). You've got a way of turning events to your favor in the next five weeks — setting the tone for the year ahead. Be ambitious next month in your pursuit of greater resources, but take time to relax, too. In November, you could meet a fascinating sweetheart at an event. Love grows through the holidays and could lead to marriage in February, possibly to a Capricorn.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You have perfect social skills, which will serve you more than once this weekend. Try not to nurture codependency. Your perpetual motion may absorb someone to the point of losing his or her own needs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Projects fare well if you focus on the long term, but relation (See HOROSCOPE, Page 8D)

Bluegrass group at visitor's center tonight

The Smithsonian Institution public television series, "The Mississippi: River of Song," will be presented during the grand opening of the new Melvin Price Locks & Dam Visitor's Center in Alton at 7:30 p.m. today.

"River of Song" will be celebrated with the showing of a portion of the documentary and a live concert performance by the Bob Lewis Family, a bluegrass group from Poplar Bluff, Mo., which is featured in the documentary.

This will mark the public's first look at the new center, a 12,000-square-foot facility that will house world-class displays and exhibits on the great American rivers.

"River of Song" producer-director John Junkerman will introduce the clip and host a question-and-answer session following the presentation.

ships are quite the opposite. Make your home more livable, and your workplace more efficient. Be prompt with payments and replies. You're lucky in money and games.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21).

One phase of a relationship ends as another begins. Don't discount a loved one's grumpy mood without listening. In business, communication will save money; explain what you've concluded — and stick to it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Upgrade current financial situation; delegate spending carefully. A relationship proves to be a "perfect fit." Overcome differences with family before everything gets out of hand. You're rewarded for your motivation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You test others without their knowledge, which is unfair, and you could end up sad and disappointed. Your ticket to money, luck and love is found with inward focus. Don't give away your power.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Your unassuming attitude attracts intelligent people. Wisdom takes the place of innocence in a loved one's life. Let others know your love is unconditional, or they might hide their true selves.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Set rules in your love life, and have real consequences should they be broken. When you define those fuzzy areas of your personal life, something clicks, and goals fall into line.

Character shifts make for bad TV

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

Two sure ways to ruin a television show are to have major characters become a couple or to turn a nasty character nice.

I bring this up because a program I enjoy, "Friends," has threatened entertainment suicide by having two separate couples get together. Not only have Ross and Rachel been an off-and-on item for some time now, but the writers matched up Monica and Chandler at the end of last season.

This is not good. I hope the show loses none of its bite with all this romantic intrigue. I can list numerous shows that have taken a turn for the worse when they linked major characters. "Moonlighting" was a much better program when David and Maddie were fighting than when they became a couple. The "Cheers" episodes with Sam and Diane at each other's throats were funnier than when they were together. "Hill Street Blues" was nearly ruined for me when they gave Belker a love interest and toned down his vicious behavior.

Taking the orneriness out of a show is always a mistake, to me. I can remember what was done to "The Little People," which starred Brian Keith as a pediatrician running a free clinic in Hawaii. When it first came on in 1972, the kids were all brats and Keith was pretty mean to them.

The next year, the program became "The Brian Keith Show" and everybody acted sweeter to each other. I could not stand it anymore.

•Trivia

the topic is television.

Specifically, the questions involve shows that I feel were harmed by their own writers in some fashion.

1. From "M*A*S*H," what was the real first name of the Radar O'Reilly character?
2. Lyle Waggoner and Vicki Lawrence were regulars on what variety show?
3. The Campbells and Tates were the two families on what sitcom?

4. What is the name of the pet dog on "Mad About You"?
5. What is the name of the pet dog on "Frasier"?
6. On "Three's Company," who played the original landlord of the apartment building?
7. Who played Fred Mertz on "I Love Lucy"?
8. Who played Perry White on "Lois & Clark — The New Adventures of Superman"?
9. Who was Joel's landlady on "Northern Exposure"?
10. "Picket Fences" was set in what town?

Answers: 1. Walter. My problem here was they turned Radar from a punk into a wimp. 2. "The Carol Burnett Show." This was a great program, but they got too repetitive in using the same characters over and over. 3. "Soap." This show got too weird. 4. Murray. Here, they lost a good character, Jay, after the first year and it hurt the program. 5. Eddie. I like this show, but the episodes where Frasier whines about his love life are not nearly as humorous as the ones in which he yells at people. 6. Norman Fell. It hurt this show a great deal when he left and was replaced by Don Knotts. 7. William Frawley. It was a mistake to move the setting of this show from a New York apartment to the country. 8. Lane Smith. Again, they never should have let the main characters fall in love. They were better snipping at each other. 9. Maggie. It was annoying when Maggie and Joel became a couple. 10. Rome, Wis. I always felt this show was a cheap rip-off of "Northern Exposure."

Kevin Carbery can be heard as a regular on "The Trivia Coast-to-Coast Show."

International Folkfest is Oct. 16-18

A three-day celebration featuring food, dance and art from every corner of the world will greet guests at the 1998 International Folkfest in St. Louis.

African drummers, American Indian beadwork and ethnic foods will be featured Oct. 16-18 at the Greensfelder Recreation Complex at Queeny Park in west St. Louis County. Hours are 6 to 9 p.m. Oct. 16, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Oct. 17 and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Oct. 18.

More than 70 ethnic and international organizations and almost 1,000 authentic ethnic entertainers will participate. "The Folkfest has grown to be the largest multicultural event in the region," said Barbara Qureshi, chair of the 1998 International Folkfest. "We expect more than 15,000 guests to experience traditional dancing, music, food, cultural and educational exhibits, folk art demonstrations and an international bazaar."

Opening night will have a special focus on children's activities, but throughout the weekend, younger visitors can develop their artistic and cultural sensitivities with hands-on crafts from many cultures. Children can create colorful masks and puppets or have a lesson in ethnic cooking. Children can get their name or a special message written in one of 15 different alphabets from around the world. Young visitors can explore different cultures when they visit the Cultural Discovery Room, where guests can listen to master storytellers relay tales from around the world, participate in craft workshops with traditional masters, or watch and sample the results of ethnic cooking demonstrations.

Ethnic performers will entertain Folkfest guests with non-stop performances on two stages. This year, local artists will be joined by stars from Spain, Africa and Peru.

The Ethnic Treasures of St. Louis Fashion Show will be at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 17. Folkfest visitors will get a view of exotic fashions seldom seen outside their native lands. The clothing will feature the splendor of ethnic wedding costumes, practical everyday clothes and everything in between.

For more information, call Suzanne Holroyd at (314) 991-4641, or Anna Crosslin or Kelly Turner at the International Institute at (314) 773-9090.

computer animation house Pixar, pitched the "Bug's Life" story to executives other than Katzenberg at Disney. Lasseter was already working on another film that Disney was excited about — "Toy Story" — and the ant movie was greenlighted on the spot.

The idea had other things going for it. Disney also coincidentally had long been considering doing an animated ant movie. As far back as 1988, Disney was developing a project that went by various titles, including "Army Ants" and just "Ants," but it had gone nowhere.

When Lasseter came to the table, the ant project was jump-started.

Just what Katzenberg knew about the Disney ant movie is a subject of great debate. He has denied in published reports any knowledge of the film until after DreamWorks started its own animated ant movie. But he refused to comment to The Associated Press about the matter.

Still, he was at the Disney studio after his resignation to finish old business, and saw a rough cut of Lasseter's "Toy Story," the computer-animated film that would be released in 1995 and become one of the biggest hits in Disney history.

By Sept. 30, 1994, Katzenberg was off the Disney lot, leaving bad feelings and litigation in his wake. He filed a $250 million breach-of-contract lawsuit, which was settled late last year.

In October 1994, Katzenberg joined forces with Spielberg and Geffen to form DreamWorks SKG, and the following year the idea for an animated ant movie was pitched to then-DreamWorks executive Nina Jacobson (now, ironically, working at Disney) by PDI, a computer animation house and a rival to Pixar.

Like Disney, DreamWorks also had a similar project in the pipeline, this one a live-action film about insects. The PDI pitch was based on a 1991 story by Tim Johnson about a little ant caught in a huge bureaucracy who believes life can offer much more.

Jacobson brought the idea to Katzenberg, who approved the project. By 1996, "Antz" was in high gear, with Johnson and Darnell of PDI directing. "We did know about 'A Bug's Life,'" said Johnson in an interview at the Toronto International Film Festival, where "Antz" premiered last weekend. "All we knew is that they had a film."

He said it wouldn't be unusual for more than one ant project to be in the works at the same time.

"It's computer animation. It's a new industry. It has limitations: It doesn't do skin, hair and clothing real well," he said. "Take away skin, hair and clothing and you have crabs and insects."

Even though "A Bug's Life" got a jump in production on "Antz," it was "Antz" that was first to be completed, unexpectedly early, opening another chapter in the ant saga.

"Antz" was initially slotted for March 1999, but DreamWorks pushed it up to October, ensuring that "Antz" would be the first computer-animated bug movie of the fall, beating "A Bug's Life" by several weeks.

'Pi' is remarkable movie of ideas

By Brian Kaller
Staff writer

Rarely does one find a film that respects ideas, about individuals who are devoted to abstractions. Movie characters usually are driven by greed and hormones, and care nothing about knowledge for its own sake. "Pi," Darren Aronofsky's haunting, thought-provoking film debut, understands the power of the abstract.

Max Cohen (Sean Gullette) is a mathematician whose narration continually reiterates his core beliefs — that mathematics is the language of the universe, that one can use mathematics to understand and predict the patterns in nature.

His Holy Grail is pi — one of the first and greatest discoveries, the formula for a circle. For 2,500 years mathematicians have tried to isolate patterns in its endless digits, and Max is convinced he is close. He lives with the ticking of an internal clock, with every second bringing him a moment closer to death or the ultimate discovery.

Max lives in self-imposed isolation in a Chinatown apartment, filled with the innards of interconnected computer systems. He has programmed these to scan stock indicators, trying to uncover the hidden patterns in stock rises and falls as he can other numbers.

Max cannot slow down — he is so close. But the stress is taking its toll. He experiences migraine-like seizures that lead to nightmarish hallucinations. He begins to think he is being watched and followed. Worse yet, he is.

A smooth-talking woman (Pamela Hart) persists in calling him, cajoling him to meet her. She represents Wall Street investors who realize his stock market analyses are on to something and will offer any prize or threaten any harm to get what they want.

The line between real and imagined threats becomes blurrier, until the film reaches its shocking conclusion.

Shot in high-contrast, black-and-white style, "Pi" uses quick, rhythmic editing and a corrosive soundtrack of industrial music to create a mood of urban chaos and paranoia. Intensely cerebral and emotionally shocking, it is not for all tastes. But it is a remarkable film, and one of the best of the year.
